

Upper Providence for Open Space

Annual Meeting

Sunday, May 21, 2017, 2:00 – 4:00 p.m.

After a brief business portion, our speaker will be Mike Hoppus, UPOS Board Member and recent graduate of the Master Watershed Steward Course offered by Penn State Extension Service.

Please join us to help celebrate and discuss the many benefits of saving the forested flood plain from development. There are many. Some are obvious and some are not. After some cheering and discussion, you may join us on a short trip through the park to see some of the benefits first hand. Wildlife beauty, solitude, recreation, discovery, cleaner air and water, less chance of destructive flooding, more water are just a few of the gifts this forested floodplain provide....!! Come celebrate them...!!

Meet at the picnic tables - North Entrance to Scott Park
(In case of rain, Meeting will be held at 1071 N Ridley Creek Rd)

Meeting is open to the public.

Light Refreshments will be served.
